The Hundred 2025 Men's final is set to be a blockbuster clash as defending champions Oval Invincibles take on Trent Rockets at Lord's. Both sides have been among the most consistent performers this season, and with the trophy on the line, fans can expect a contest full of drama, flair, and big moments.

Toss Prediction

At Lord's, chasing under lights can be tricky as the pitch tends to slow down. Teams batting first have often enjoyed better success in high-pressure finals. Oval Invincibles, known for setting imposing totals, are likely to prefer batting first if they win the toss, while the Rockets may look to chase with their aggressive top order.

Top Run-Scorer Prediction

For the Invincibles, Will Jacks remains the most dangerous batter. His explosive starts in the powerplay can quickly shift momentum. On the other hand, the Rockets will rely heavily on Dawid Malan, whose consistency and ability to anchor the innings make him a strong contender for top run-scorer in this final.

Man of the Match Prediction

In finals, all-round performances often decide the outcome. Sam Curran, with his ability to contribute with both bat and ball, looks primed to make an impact and could walk away with the Man of the Match award. However, if Trent Rockets pull off an upset, Malan's batting masterclass could tilt the scales his way.
