

Asia Cup Records: Most Runs, Wickets, Centuries & Five-Fors in History

The Asia Cup has been a stage for some of the greatest performances in cricket history. Since its inception in 1984, the tournament has witnessed batters piling up runs, bowlers dismantling batting lineups, and match-winners stepping up in high-pressure situations. As the 2025 edition approaches, let's revisit the standout records that define this prestigious competition.

Most Runs in Asia Cup History

When it comes to batting dominance, few can match the consistency of legends who have thrived on Asian pitches. Sri Lankan batters in particular have made the most of the conditions, with players like Sanath Jayasuriya and Kumar Sangakkara amassing huge runs over multiple editions. Indian greats such as Rohit Sharma and Virat Kohli have also left their mark, producing memorable knocks against fierce rivals.

Most Wickets

The bowlers, too, have had their share of glory. Muttiah Muralitharan leads the charts with his unmatched spin wizardry, bamboozling batters across formats. More recently, the likes of Lasith Malinga and Indian seamers have kept the contest alive with game-changing spells, making wickets as vital as runs in deciding Asia Cup champions.

Check Out:- Will Sanju Samson Play In Asia Cup 2025

Most Centuries

Centuries in the Asia Cup carry extra weight, often coming in crunch games. Players like Jayasuriya, Kohli, and Shahid Afridi have lit up the tournament with unforgettable hundreds. These innings have not only boosted personal tallies but also swung the momentum of entire campaigns.

Most Five-Wicket Hauls

For bowlers, a five-wicket haul is the ultimate prize, and the Asia Cup has seen several match-defining spells. Malinga, known for his lethal yorkers, holds a special place in this category. His ability to deliver under pressure ensured Sri Lanka stayed competitive even against the strongest opponents.

Final Word

The Asia Cup's record books are filled with extraordinary feats from both bat and ball, underscoring why the tournament holds such prestige. As we move closer to the 2025 edition, fans are eager to see whether new names will join this elite list or if the veterans will continue to extend their dominance.

Related Article:- Asia Cup Cricket History