

Top 5 Greatest WWE Wrestlers of the 2020s So Far

The 2020s have brought a new era of WWE, blending established superstars with fresh faces who are reshaping the wrestling landscape. Despite global challenges, WWE has delivered some of the most thrilling matches and storylines in recent years. Let's take a look at the top five greatest WWE wrestlers of the 2020s so far.

1. Roman Reigns

Roman Reigns has defined the decade with his “Tribal Chief” persona. His dominant run as the Undisputed Universal Champion has been historic, breaking records and elevating WWE's storytelling. Reigns’ aura, charisma, and ability to deliver in high-stakes matches have made him the face of this era.

2. Seth Rollins

Known as “The Visionary,” Seth Rollins has reinvented himself multiple times and continues to be one of the most versatile performers. His in-ring ability, combined with his unique character work, has kept him at the top of WWE programming. Rollins' consistency makes him one of the most reliable stars of the 2020s.

3. Bianca Belair

Bianca Belair has risen to superstardom in rapid fashion. Winning the 2021 Royal Rumble and headlining WrestleMania 37, she showcased her athleticism, charisma, and star power. With multiple title reigns already, Belair has cemented herself as one of the greatest female wrestlers of this decade.

Check Out:- All John Cena vs Brock Lesnar WWE Matches

4. Drew McIntyre

Drew McIntyre carried WWE during the challenging pandemic era, winning the WWE Championship at WrestleMania 36. His powerful presence, resilience, and ability to connect with fans have made him a cornerstone of WWE in the 2020s. McIntyre's journey from release to redemption is one of the most inspiring stories in wrestling.

5. Rhea Ripley

Rhea Ripley has emerged as a dominant force in the women's division. With her fierce persona and unmatched intensity, she has won major titles and become a central figure in factions like The Judgment Day. Ripley's rise reflects WWE's new generation of stars who are shaping the future.

Final Thoughts

The 2020s have been an exciting decade for WWE so far, with stars like Roman Reigns and Bianca Belair redefining excellence. These five wrestlers have not only achieved personal milestones but also carried the company forward, ensuring WWE remains the global leader in sports entertainment.

Check Out:- Top 5 Best WWE Wrestlers Of The 2020s