

WWE Royal Rumble: Superstars with the Most Match Wins (Men & Women)

The WWE Royal Rumble is one of the most iconic and unpredictable events in sports entertainment. Every January, 30 superstars enter the ring one by one, all vying for a spot in the main event of WrestleMania. Over the years, some wrestlers have carved out legendary Royal Rumble résumés, not just by participating, but by winning the match itself—the ultimate prize of the night.

Men's Royal Rumble – Kings of the Rumble

At the top of the men's list is "Stone Cold" Steve Austin, the only superstar to win three Royal Rumble matches (1997, 1998, and 2001). Austin's dominance in the Attitude Era was unmatched, and his Rumble victories helped cement his place as one of the greatest WWE Superstars of all time.

Next in line are several two-time winners, including legends like Triple H, Shawn Michaels, Batista, Randy Orton, and Edge. Each of them used their Rumble wins to launch or extend championship reigns and headlining careers. Notably, Shawn Michaels was the first to win from the No. 1 entry spot in 1995, a feat that remains one of the most impressive in Rumble history.

Women's Royal Rumble – Queens Rising

Since its introduction in 2018, the Women's Royal Rumble has quickly become a fan-favorite, giving female Superstars a chance to shine on a grand scale. So far, no woman has won more than once, making each victory historic and unique.

Asuka won the inaugural match in 2018, while Becky Lynch, Charlotte Flair, Bianca Belair, Ronda Rousey, and Bayley have each had their moment of glory. Among these, Bianca Belair's 2021 win stands out as she lasted nearly an hour and eliminated multiple top stars to punch her ticket to WrestleMania.

Looking Ahead

The Royal Rumble is as much about endurance and surprise as it is about star power. With every passing year, new names rise and legends return, making it the most unpredictable night in WWE. As records are made and broken, fans continue to watch in awe—waiting for that one Superstar who will etch their name into Rumble history again... or for the very first time.
