

Hardik Pandya Contract: Complete Breakdown of Salary, Earnings, and More

Hardik Pandya has become one of the biggest names in Indian cricket—not just for his explosive performances on the field but also for his growing presence in the business and entertainment world. From national contracts to IPL mega deals and brand endorsements, Pandya's income sources are as dynamic as his game. Here's a complete breakdown of how Hardik Pandya earns his money.

BCCI Central Contract

As of 2025, Hardik Pandya holds a Grade A contract with the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI). This earns him an annual salary of ₹5 crore. Additionally, he receives match fees for each game he plays for the Indian team. That's ₹6 lakh for an ODI, ₹3 lakh for a T20I, and ₹15 lakh for a Test match. While Pandya has mostly featured in white-ball cricket lately, these fees add up quickly across a busy calendar year.

IPL Salary

One of the biggest contributors to Pandya's earnings is the Indian Premier League (IPL). In the 2025 season, Hardik was retained by the Mumbai Indians for ₹16.35 crore. Previously, he also served as the captain of Gujarat Titans and commanded a similarly massive pay package. The IPL has not only made him a household name but also significantly boosted his financial portfolio.

Endorsements and Brand Deals

Hardik is a favorite among brands due to his charismatic personality and youth appeal. He endorses multiple national and international brands across lifestyle, sports, fashion, and tech sectors. It's estimated that he charges between ₹1.5 to ₹2 crore per endorsement, making this one of his most lucrative income streams outside cricket.

Business Ventures and Investments

Beyond cricket, Hardik has also shown interest in entrepreneurship. He has invested in fashion brands, wellness startups, and digital platforms. These ventures ensure that he continues to earn even when he's off the field and set him up for long-term financial stability.

Final Thoughts

Combining his BCCI contract, IPL earnings, endorsements, and investments, Hardik Pandya's annual income comfortably crosses ₹25–30 crore. His financial journey mirrors his cricketing rise—bold, strategic, and full of impact.
