

Who Will Captain Rajasthan Royals in IPL 2026? Full Analysis and Likely Options

As the IPL 2026 season approaches, one of the biggest talking points for Rajasthan Royals is the question of leadership. With changes expected in the squad and the possibility of a fresh start, fans are keen to know who could take over the captaincy role. Rajasthan Royals have always been a team that values young talent, innovation, and fearless cricket, making the choice of captain even more interesting. Here's a detailed look at the most likely candidates who could lead RR in the upcoming season.

Sanju Samson – The Front-Runner

Sanju Samson has been the face of Rajasthan Royals for several years. His calm demeanor, improved consistency, and experience as captain make him the strongest contender to continue in the role. He understands the team culture deeply and has earned the trust of both management and fans. If RR aims for stability, Samson will likely be their go-to choice again.

Yashasvi Jaiswal – The Rising Leader

Yashasvi Jaiswal has grown rapidly as one of India's brightest young stars. His aggression, maturity, and impressive performances in recent IPL seasons make him a possible future captain. While RR may not hand over the captaincy immediately, Jaiswal remains a long-term leadership option. If the franchise wants to build a young core with a fresh mindset, Jaiswal could be a bold but exciting choice.

Jos Buttler – The Experienced International Star

Jos Buttler brings immense leadership experience from England cricket. Known for his game awareness, attacking mindset, and calmness in tense moments, Buttler could step up if RR opts for an overseas captain. His tactical knowledge and ability to guide youngsters make him a strong alternative if the team wants a proven leader.

Ravichandran Ashwin – The Tactical Genius

Ashwin is one of the smartest cricket minds in the world. His experience, innovative thinking, and sharp decision-making make him an outside but solid captaincy option. If RR aims to strengthen their strategic approach and rely on experience, Ashwin could offer that leadership spark.

Final Thoughts

Rajasthan Royals have a good mix of youth and experience, and their choice of captain will depend on the direction they want to take in 2026. Whether they continue with Sanju Samson or explore fresh leadership, the franchise appears well-prepared for another competitive season.
