

Lubricants Exports of Russia: Trends and Updates of 2024

Lubricants, the substances that are used in industrial sectors to reduce the friction, heat, and wear between two surfaces, are preferred most by the leading global traders to expand their market revenue. The countries with higher automotive manufacturing units rely on lubricants for the smooth functioning of the automotive essentials. The industrialization and manufacturing demand, along with the countries with vast oil reserves and enough refining capacity, have maintained continuity in the global trade of lubricants.

Russia in Eastern Europe and Northern Asia, bordered by Siberia in its eastern part, has established itself as a leading exporter of lubricants in the international trade market due to the large refining capacity in the nation and the establishment of domestic lubricant producers due to the cold climate formulations and the large network of base oil exporters. The country has recorded a total valuation of lubricant exports worth 4 billion US dollars in 2024. The integration of the country with the top oil traders and the ability to serve the diverging markets have solidified its global trade. ## GOVERNMENT INITIATIVES SUPPORTING THE LUBRICANTS EXPORT OF RUSSIA IN 2024

The National Project for International Cooperation and Export, launched by the Government Authorities of Russia, has enhanced the export infrastructure while reducing trade barriers. The Made in Russia Export Promotion Program has increased the visibility of the Russian lubricant's exporter in the global trade market.

The subsidized R&D and investment via the Industrial Development Fund have supported the production of low- and medium-tonnage chemical products. The state support for the Industrial Development Fund has introduced concessional loans for import-substitutional high-tech production.

THE TOP 10 VARIANTS OF LUBRICANTS EXPORTED FROM RUSSIA IN 2024

Russia, with its infrastructure and construction development, along with the additive manufacturing capacity growth, has recorded diversity in the global trade outputs. According to the Russia Export Data, the top 10 leading variants of lubricants exported from the nation in 2024 are,

- Motor oil – The annual valuation of Motor oil exported from Russia in 2024 – 1.24 billion US dollars
- Gear oil – The annual valuation of Gear oil exported from Russia in 2024 – 1 billion US dollars

- Hydraulic oil – The annual valuation of Hydraulic oil exported from Russia in 2024 – 918 million US dollars
- Turbine oil– The annual valuation of Turbine oil exported from Russia in 2024 – 827 million US dollars
- Reducer oil – The annual valuation of Reducer oil exported from Russia in 2024 – 765 million US dollars
- Vacuum pump oil – The annual valuation of Vacuum pump oil exported from Russia in 2024 – 654 million US dollars
- Base oil – The annual valuation of Base oil exported from Russia in 2024 – 578 million US dollars
- Grease– The annual valuation of Grease exported from Russia in 2024 – 437 million US dollars
- Eco-lubricant– The annual valuation of Eco-lubricant exported from Russia in 2024 – 289 million US dollars
- Special-use oil – The annual valuation of Special-use oil exported from Russia in 2024 – 224 million US dollars

TOP 10 EXPORT TRADE PARTNERS OF RUSSIA IN 2024

The use of remote monitoring systems and the government's focus on import substitution has properly established a suitable trade with the topmost importing nations. As per the Russia Customs Data, the top 10 export trade partners of the nation for lubricants exports in 2024 are,

- China – The annual valuation of lubricants exported from Russia to China in 2024 – 1.65 billion US dollars
